Clear Skies for Holiday

Programs Planned For Area

Clear skies, fair weather and high temperatures are expected to prevail tomorrow to help Monessen district residents enjoy Independence Day.

With the exception of two fireworks displays, one in Monessen tonight and the other in Charleroi tomorrow night, no special activities are planned for the area.

Picnics, family gatherings, swimming parties and road trips will probably make up the day for most residents.

In Monessen, all public offices and business establishments will be closed for the one-day holiday. The Post Office will deliver only special delivery and perishable mail.

Flags will be displayed in front of all downtown business firms. Boy Scout Troop 3, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will begin placing flags at 8 a.m.

Park Crowded

Monessen City Park is expected to be filled with picnickers. Reservations for shelters were exceptionally heavy this year, according to Director of Parks John Molnar.

Tonight at Memorial Stadium, the Monessen Lions Club will ofer a two-hour show beginning at 8 o'clock with musical entertainment and ending at 10 o'clock with a giant fireworks display.

Tomorrow night at Charleroi a fireworks display will be held at 11 o'clock at the recreation center located in the downtown parking lot.

Sgt. Karl Delbrook, of the State Police barracks in Belle Vernon, said he expects moderate highway traffic tomorrow but extremely heavy traffic from 8 o'clock tonight until about 3 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Sergeant Delbrook, like other law enforcement officers throughout the nation, warned motorists to be expectionally careful because of the predicted heavy traffic.

According to the National Safety Council, at least 400 and possibly 500 holiday travelers are marked for death on the highways between six o'clock tonight and midnight Sunday. The Council estimates there will be one traffic smashup for every 20 miles of highway travel during the four-day weekend.

Drownings and miscellaneous accidents will add to the expected toll, the Council stated.

CLEANING UP CAMERON MUCK — Mrs. Hayward Peppers begins the messy job of cleaning up the muck left in her home by the hurricane and tidal wave which devastated Cameron, La.

Thousands in Cash Found by Searchers

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UP) — Searchers hunting for more bodies in the hurricane-stricken town of Cameron have found thousands of dollars in cash strewn over the countryside, it was learned today.

Many of the Cajuns who lost their lives or homes when a tidal wave struck the Louisiana coastal town almost a week ago were distrustful of banks and kept their money on their property.

Some of the smaller communities near Cameron that were washed out by the tidal wave had no banks. There is only one bank in Cameron, a branch of a Lake Charles institution.

A man found a waterlogged wad of bills and some coins which amounted to more than $1,000 on Tuesday and turned it over to authorities.

Money Returned

State police said the money belonged to Aldis Richard, member of a family of which only four children survive. The money was placed in an envelope marked "Aldis Richard" and held at the sheriff's office.

Officials were working today on a list of persons missing in Hurricane Audrey to compare with the almost 300 bodies already found.

At last report, Sheriff Henry Reid of Calcasieu Parish (Lake Charles) said 293 bodies have been found.

Gov. Earl Long said Tuesday there was a total of 500 dead and missing. Asked for an estimate of property damage in the devastated Cameron area, he said "You'll have to get those figures from the Lord."

Reid said he expects to have a list of the missing complete today. He will check it against the identified dead and the more than 100 unidentified bodies buried in common graves for a clearer idea of the eventual total.

Claims Leader Has Neglected Highway Repair

HARRISBURG (UP) — A state Republican senator charged today Gov. George M. Leader had neglected highway maintenance more than any other chief executive during the past 18 years.

Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cumberland, in a letter to the governor, said, "I believe you have neglected highway maintenance more than any other governor during my 18 years as a state senator." He added the Highways Department budgets had been the highest in state history during Gov. Leader's term of office.

The letter was in answer to Leader's charge that Sen. Wade was responsible for the legislative death of a measure to allow state policemen to use radar to catch highway speeders. The bill died in a Senate committee controlled by Wade.

None Injured in Three-car Crash

No one was injured in a minor three-car accident near 12th St. and Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, yesterday about 4 p. m., local police reported today.

According to reports, cars driven by Dorothy Kovalchuk, of 1544 Leeds Ave., and Bernard Orsilli, of 1527 Rostraver St., both of Monessen, had stopped because of traffic. A third car, driven by Leo Wolk, of West Newton, was unable to stop and struck the rear of the Orsilli machine, pushing it into the Kovalchuk vehicle.

Fireworks Show at Stadium

A gigantic two-hour fireworks display tonight will begin the city's observance of the 181st anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Bombs will burst, rockets will flare and giant sparklers will glow at the fireworks display being sponsored by the Monessen Lions Club at Memorial Stadium.

The display, which will get under way at 10 p.m., will be preceded by a two-hour variety program.

The program will start at 8 o'clock with music by Angie Bates and his 15-piece orchestra donated by the Monongahela Valley Local of the Musicians Union.

Rosalie Culp, of Monessen who will represent Pennsylvania in the Miss Universe contest this month at Long Beach, Calif., will be an honored guest tonight.

10,000 Are Expected

For the youngsters, Dan Salotti and Bob Manderino, stars of the Lions annual minstrel, will be on hand to perform.

Joseph Shoemaker, general chairman, said about 10,000 persons from Monessen and surrounding communities are expected.

Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka said about 12 regular and auxiliary police have been assigned to handle the crowds and traffic. The same parking regulations for Monessen High School football games will be observed tonight, he stated.

There will be no admission charge. However, the Lions are urging that all youngsters be accompanied by an adult.

Shoemaker, who is being assisted by Bernard Massa and Anthony Todaro, co-chairmen, said the fireworks display alone will cost more than $1,000

Billy Graham Urges 'Golden Rule' on Highways

NEW YORK (UP) — Evangelist Billy Graham Tuesday night recommended a "Golden Rule of the highways" to persons who plan to travel by car over the long July 4th weedend:

"Drive unto others as you would have them drive unto you."

Graham urged a capacity audience of 18,500 in Madison Square Garden to "be careful as death" on the highways over the holiday.

"A man gets upset or angry with his wife or children and stalks out and gets in his car," Graham said. "Oftentimes, without knowing it, he drives like a madman to take out his anger on the car and the road.

"The tragedy is that a man in this state often crashes into another car or knocks down some pedestrian."

It was officially confirmed Tuesday night that Graham's New York Crusade had not only outlasted all previous attractions in the 30-year history of Madison Square Garden, but also outdrawn them.

John Goldner, acting manager of the Garden, said his records showed that the Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus had drawn 785,813 persons in 1947, while Graham has drawn 824,300.

The circus lasted 40 days, while the New York Crusade has already run 48 days and has until July 20 to go.

Motorist Must Show His Cards

Motorists involved in accidents with other motorists are required to show each other their driving and ownership permits, Sgt. Karl Delbrook, of the State Police barracks in Belle Vernon, said today.

Delbrook said some motorists refuse to produce their cards until police arrive.

He said a motorist is liable to fine and other penalties if he violates this state Motor Vehicle Code ruling.

Car Insurance Rates Are Increased Today

HARRISBURG (UP) — Increased automobile insurance rates went into effect today for most insured Pennsylvania motorists under premium boosts granted by the state Insurance Department

The new schedule reflected the high casualty rate of unmarried drivers under 25 years old, boosting their insurance by $8 to $31 additional yearly. Across the state most other insured drivers will pay $1 to $3 more annually.

The rate increases were granted by the department on behalf of some 410 insurance companies in three large underwriting associations. The department said most independent underwriters had already been granted rate increases.

Higher in Area

Motorists in the Westmoreland-Fayette-Washington county areas, which comprise District 13, will pay a higher rate than in the Pittsburgh area.

Bodily injury liability rates in this area in families with no under 25 men drivers jumped $4 while those where an unmarried man under 25 operates the auto were raised $18.

Property damage insurance also increased $2 in this district while the unmarried man under 25 will

Motorists in "semi-suburban" have to pay an additional $13.

Philadelphia, all of the city except portions south of Hunting Park Ave., were granted rate deductions ranging from $2-$5. Rates in the Harrisburg, Lancaster, Lebanon, Reading and York areas were unchanged except for male drivers under 25 which were boosted $1.

In Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Montgomery counties rates were boosted $1 to $2 for autos operated without male drivers under 25. Cars owned by unmarried men under 25 were increased $11.

Liability rates in the Pittsburgh area in families without under 25 men drivers jumped $4 to $5 while those where an unmarried man under 25 operates the auto were boosted $12.

Property damage insurance also increased $2 to $4 in most portions of the state and especially for late model cars. Collision insurance rates for unmarried men under 25 jumped as much as 30 per cent. The Insurance Department pointed out that while the unmarried driver under 25 was considered a poor insurance risk, they constitute only 4 per cent of the automobile insurance holders in the state.

School Plans Sent to State

Plans for a new million-dollar high school in the Perry-Lower Tyrone Joint School District, have been submitted to the state school building authority for approval.

Prior to submission, the plans were approved by the joint school board. Bids will be asked for construction following state approval.

The school, to be known as Mary Fuller Frazier High, is one of the projects authorized by the executors of the Mary Frazier estate.

About one-fourth of the cost will be paid from the $1,500,000 bequest earmarked in the woman's will for the betterment of her home town, Perryopolis.

A street lighting system, already completed, and a sewage disposal system, now under construction, are other projects.

Invites World To Check Next Nuclear Test

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today he would invite any nation to check if it wishes on U. S. progress toward a "clean" H-bomb if this country ever stages another big nuclear test.

The President emphasized at his news conference, however that the United States stands firmly behind its offer to suspend nuclear testing even though some scientific disadanvantages may result.

If the United States ever holds another big nuclear test, the President said he would invite any other country to fire rockets and use other scientific instruments to check on American progress toward a "clean" bomb free of radioactive fallout.

The President made the dramatic offer in an effort to convince any doubters that the United States is trying to build bombs without fallout. He noted that bombs are now being developed which will be approximately 96 per cent free of such fallout.

The United States, he said, is trying to develop the usefullness of nuclear energy for a peaceful world. He said a completely clean product, for example, could be used in building tunnels, moving mountains, and other peaceful projects.

Release More U-235

Eisenhower disclosed at the same time that the United States will announce later today that it is making considerably more uranuious U-235 available at home and abroad for peaceful uses. U-235 is a fissionable material which may be used for power or weapons.

The government so far has made available 40,200 kilograms (88,440 pounds) of enriched U-235 for peaceful purposes. Although the President gave no figure, it was understood, he will announce the figure has been more than doubled to 100,000 kilograms (220,000 pounds).

The President disclosed, too, that he did not know on May 25, when American disarmament plans were shaped up at the White House, that a completely clean nuclear weapon theoretically could be built if tests continued for another four or five years. The President said he knew then that radioactivity had been reduced by about 90 per cent, and that the Atomic Energy Commission suggested it would get to 96 per cent clean bombs.

Recalls Past Remarks

Mr. Eisenhower said at last week's news conference that scientists Ernest O. Lawrence and Edward Teller had predicted perfection of a completely clean bomb if tests could continue another four or five years.

The President said today that if anyone doubts the proposition advanced by these two men, then he would be glad se ask any nation to put instruments into the air to check on fallout progress. He said that of course, this does not mean the United States would disclose all its nuclear secrets to any visitor.

The President emphasized his continuing support for the new American plan to halt nuclear tests for 10 months. A newsman said the President's remarks a week ago about what could be

Says Education In U. S. Moves Freedom Forward

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Dr. James B. Conant, former Ambassador to West Germany, said today the present status of higher education in the United States is "an education miracle."

Dr. Conant, president of Harvard University for 20 years before his retirement in 1953, spoke before the centennial convention of the National Education Association.

He said that today over a third of our youth enter some college or university and "something like a fifth complete a four-year course."

"In no other nation in the world is more than a tenth of the youth age 18 to 20 studying full-time either for professional or general purposes," Conant added.

He said that in the United States, "universities have moved freedom forward," while "universities under Communist control are no longer universities."

He said that in Russia, itself, "the professional work in the universities is excellent. Yet these universities do not move freedom forward; quite the contrary."

Lyman Ginger, of the University of Kentucky, was nominated president of the association Tuesday to succeed Martha A. Shull, of Portland, Ore.

Newport, R. I. Becomes Jazz Town Thursday

NEWPORT, R.I., (UP)—It's a long way from Basin Street in New Orleans to Bellevue Avenue in Newport. But jazz makes the jump Thursday night when this seashore city becomes Jazztown, U.S.A.

The fourth annual Newport Jazz Festival, four days of the hottest, coldest, lowdown-est music either side of Mason-Dixon, blown by 125 kings of the cats, should draw 40,000 jazz lovers.

Fittingly, Thursday's opener is a swinging birthday blast for the crown prince of them all, Louis Armstrong, 57 on the Fourth of July.

Happy birthday never will sound the same as blown by the all-star group, including Satchmo, Sidney Bechet, Jack Teagarden, Cozy Cole, J. C. Higginbotham, Red Allen Kid Ory, Arvell Shaw, Claude Hopkins, Buster Bailey and George Lewis. Ella Fitzgerald will do the warbling.

Modern dance, in the person of Eartha Kitt and her company, also takes a bow at this year's festival, generally accepted as the world series of jazz. The program will include gospel music by Mahalia Jackson, and Clara Ward.

Steel Boost Won't Up Costs—Economist

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Last week's increases in the prices of steel may have no effect on the general cost of living, according to Dr. Jules Backman, professor of economics at New York University.

"Steel represents only three per cent of the national economy," the economist said, "and can mean absolutely nothing to the cost of living.

Dr. Backman, now at the University of Pittsburgh to give a special six-week course in price practices and policies, said two thirds of the factors which make up the cost-of-living index are services, food and clothing "which are completely unaffected by the price of steel."

He said United Steelworkers president David J. McDonald's contention that the steel companies could absorb increased labor costs was "wrong." As of July 1, 700,000 steel workers received wage increases and other benefits which the companies estimated will cost about 22 cents per hour per man.

"Every year, Mr. McDonald makes the same statement—that the industry can absorb the wage increase granted," Dr. Backman said. "If the industry had tried, it would be bankrupt."

During the past year, he said, the steel industry has realized a profit of six to seven cents on the sales dollar, or about the same as in 1940. Such a margin is not unreasonable, he said.

Court Orders City, Township 'Split' Tax

In a ruling made public yesterday, the Westmoreland County courts said it would be unconstitutional for the City of Monessen and Rostraver Twp. School District to each collect a one per cent wage income tax, stating "it would be doubling the amount of the tax that other residents in the area involved pay."

In an opinion and decree written by Judge John M. O'Connell and concurred in by Judges Richard D. Laird and Edward G. Bauer, the court has ordered that the wage tax levied by the City of Monessen and Rostraver Twp., School District shall not exceed one per cent in the area involved.

Yesterday's ruling was the result of a petition filed by Monessen City Solicitor Frank P. Ezerski, Jr., last December asking the courts to make a declaratory judgment in the wage income tax controversy between the City of Monessen and Rostraver School District.

Monessen took the issue to court after the two parties were unable to reach an amicable agreement.

The controversy resulted from the annexation of two areas of Rostraver Twp., by the City of Monessen on Aug. 25, 1955. The State Council of Education on Nov. 4, 1955, however, decreed that the two annexed areas "continue to be and remain part of the Rostraver School District."

At the time of the annexation, both the City of Monessen and Rostraver School District had levied a one per cent wage tax on residents of their respective municipalities.

The question the court was asked to decide was whether or not both the city and school district

Leader Charges 1957 Legislature Was 'Very Bad'

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader told a statewide television audience Tuesday night the Republican controlled 1957 Legislature was "a very bad, an unproductive and . . . destructive session."

Leader took the recent General Assembly to task during a 30 minute review of legislation awaiting action on his desk prior to the July 20 deadline.

The governor said some lobbyists at the capital were more powerful in the Legislature than any state politician or officeholder.

"The 1957 Legislature not only followed the lobbyists in major policy; it protected the lobbyist from disclosure as to their identity and the amount of money they spend making friends and influencing votes at Harrisburg," Leader said.

As one sample the governor cited a bill to make the state liable for the costs of moving utility facilities when they must make way for highway construction under the interstate system.

"I will veto this bill in the next few days," Leader said. "But you can be sure that the lobbyists will be back with it, session after session, until they find the right combination of a dominated Legislature and a governor unfaithful to his trust."

Turning to the general fund budget, the governor said he had trimmed $175,000,000 from it before submitting a $1,300,000,000 figure to the Assembly. He said the Legislature cut "beyond the safety limit" when it reduced the budget by another $70,000,000.

He said the Republican budget slashes would be felt across the state in services ranging from the mental health program to slum clearance and county health units.

Gov. Leader charged the Assembly "killed" legislation to extend permanent civil service protection to the state's professional employes, indicating he will veto a Republican measure to grant "tenure type" job security to a limited number of Commonwealth workers.

In other areas, Leader charged the Legislature:

—Killed legislation to require registration of lobbyists.

—Refused to revamp the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission with a non-salaried board.

—Ignored recommendations on governmental reorganization.

—Denied the use of radar by state policemen to curb speed violators.

—Failed to forbid discrimination in granting entrance to state aided institutions.

On the credit side, Leader cited measures to open the records and meetings of most state and local agencies; the preparation for a study of the 83-year-old state Constitution for possible revision and the granting of third class cities the choice of three types of local government.

The governor also commended the session for passing Constitutional amendments along to the voters which would permit the paying of a Korean War bonus and absentee voting if approved at the polls.

Republican State Chairman eorge I. Bloom reacted sharply to the speech. He said:

"How any man holding the position ov. Leader holds can say the untrue things he said without blinking an eye when he knows in his heart that they are not true, is impossible for me to understand."

Bloom said the Republicans would expose the "many outright falsehoods" in the governor's speech when they are given equal time to reply on television.

Court

"are permitted to levy one per cent wage taxes on residents of the areas, or whether or not the monies held in escrow by the special tax collector in Rostraver School District should be divided equally between the City and township school district."

In his opinion, Judge O'Connell said:

"It seems to be clear that not more than one per cent tax can be levied on the residents of this area, as under the Act it is not permitted to levy more than one per cent and it would be inequitable to declare this Act invalid and permit both the Township School District and the City of Monessen to levy the one per cent tax, which would be doubling the amount of the tax other residents of the same area pay."

The court decree stipulated that the money held in escrow by the special tax collector in the township "be divided equally between the City of Monessen and Rostraver Township School District from and after the date of annexation, which is Aug. 25, 1955, up to and including the date (July 2, 1956) upon which the City of Monessen gave its intention to the School District to levy such tax.

"After proper notice has been given and a proper levy made by each municipality, thereafter, each tax collector shall collect one-half of one per cent wage tax on residents in these annexed areas."

Joseph Bafile, Monessen wage tax collector, said the City's amount of the money held in escrow would probably total between $3,000 and $4,000.

Officials in both the City of Monessen and Rostraver School District could not be contacted for comment on the courts' decree today.

'Dream School' Given Green Light in Butler

BUTLER, Pa. (UP)—The Butler Area Joint Senior High School Board voted Tuesday night to go ahead with plans for a campus-type "dream school."

However, it decided to receive separate bids for several "luxury" items which may be dropped before construction begins. These included the landscaping, swimming pool, certain industrial shops and the stadium.

As proposed originally, the entire project was to have cost seven million dollars. Because of the high price tag, six of the nine member boards in the jointure refused two months ago to approve the project.

The alternate bid system drew unanimous board agreement at the Tuesday night meeting, although four of the 38 members present voiced individual opposition.

Construction bids on the school will be sought within the next few weeks.

Steel Users to Pass Along Hike

NEW YORK (UP) — Most steel users plan to pass along the $6 a ton price hike to their customers wherever competition will allow, Iron Age said today.

The steel trade magazine quoted one structural fabricator: "We will have to increase prices or go broke."

One of the sure effects of the price hike will be a narrower profit margin for many users, the magazine said, with a competitive situation on the one hand and higher costs on the other.

An electrical equipment and appliance manufacturer said: "We estimate the steel price increase will add approximately $2,500,000 to our costs. The price increase will also be reflected in fabricated products we buy."

Youth Receives Record $750,000

CHICAGO (UP) — A Superior Court jury awarded what is believed to be a record $750,000 to a boy, 9, injured in a store explosion that killed eight persons last Jan. 28.

Michael Finn, Roselle, lost both legs in the blast, and suffered additional severe injuries. He had been shopping for his mother, Mrs Robert Finn, when the explosion occurred.

Attorneys for the Commonwealth Edison Co. and the Northern Illinois Gas Co. admitted responsibility for the hardware store explosion in suburban Roselle.

Army Asks Formally To Try U. S. Soldier

PARIS (UP)—The U.S. Army applied formally to the French government today for jurisdiction over a Manhasset, N.Y., soldier accused of killing an Algerian.

Army officials at the U.S. base in Orleans, where Specialist 3-C De Wayne McOsker, 21, is a cook, said the request was filed formally this morning with the French Ministery of Justice.

McOsker is being held in French custody in a Paris jail on a charge of "voluntary manslaughter" in the shooting death of Abdel Ahmed Liamini last May 25 in the honky tonk Pigalle section of the French capital.

McOsker was a cook at the American base at Orleans. He enlisted at Oak Hill, W. Va., where his grandparents live.

Under the status of forces act the French have jurisdiction over McOsker because he was off duty at the time of the incident and because a French citizen was involved. But they can surrender jurisdiction if they choose.

In Manhasset McOsker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester McOsker, retained attorney Kenneth Molly and his partner, James Fletcher, to help in the case. Both are veterans and Fletcher served in the Air Force's judge advocate's office.

Frank J. Becker, a Republican state legislator, led a drive to prevent a French court from trying McOsker. Becker has been a leading foe of the status of forces treaty and said trial by a French court would deprive McOsker of his constitutional rights.

Four Dead in Fire Aboard Aircraft Carrier

MARSEILLES, France (UP)—A huge fire broke out on the 40,000-ton U.S. aircraft carrier Lake Champlain here today. Four persons, three of them crew members and one a French dock worker, were reported killed.

The Lake Champlain and two destroyers arrived here today from Italian waters for a 13-day visit to this Mediterranean port. Ninety minutes after its arrival, it began unloading automobiles onto launches which were to carry them to land.

Fire broke out in one of the launches and quickly spread to the after end of the carrier. Smoke rose several thousand feet into the air while spilled gasoline began flaming on the water itself.

French fireboats came to the carrier's assistance and put out the fire which lasted for nearly three hours.

The bodies of the four were discovered when the fire was put out. Their identities were not immediately known.

Fire fighters from the U.S. destroyers aided the French fireboats.

Actual damage to the carrier itself was light and the main blaze was confined to the launches.

Ten cars and two buses were badly damaged.

Greek Society in Convention

Meetings Open in McKeesport

Several Monessen persons were among the nearly 1,000 delegates present when the 14th annual convention of the United Chian Societies of America opened in McKeesport today.

The organization is composed of immigrants from the Greek Island of Chios and their descendants.

The four-day meeting is being held at the Penn-McKee Hotel.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the delegates and other members of the Societies will attend church services at the St. Spyridon Greek Orthodox Church in Monessen.

Four officials of Chios, now on a good will tour of the United States, are guests at the convention. They are Mayor Pantelis Patelidas, Libraries Supt. Stephanos Kavadas, Council President Socrates Helios and Gov. Nicholas Aronis.

Officers Listed

Convention officers are Gust Melissas, of Monessen, general chairman; Samuel Mestousis, of McKeesport, vice-chairman; Mikeal Kolakis, of McKeesport, secretary, and Emanuel Brouzakis, of Monessen, treasurer.

Demosthenes Costalos, of New York, is national president of the organization.

The main business session will take place Saturday at 9 a.m., when the election of new officers will take place. Saturday night Greek night will be held at the Vogue Terrace, McKeesport, at which time a "Miss Chios" will be selected and crowned by last year's queen, Jenny Leriotis.

Sunday night at the Terrace a banquet and dance will bring the convention to a close.

Fire Destroys 107-year-old Lititz Church

LITITZ, Pa. (UP) —Fire destroyed the 107 year old historic Lititz Moravian Church Tuesday and threatened to spread to other church buildings and the nearby Linden Hall Junior College.

The blaze, believed to have been started by a painter's burning torch, burned throughout the structure and into the parsonage, causing an estimated one-million dollars in damages.

Dr. Byron K. Horne, headmaster at Linden Hall, said it appeared the entire church and parsonage would have to be replaced. Rev. Carl J. Hermich, pastor of the church and his family were out of town.

Firemen were hampered by insufficient water pressure. Companies from Lancaster, Manheim, Brunnersville, and Warwick were also called.

At the start of the fire, hundreds flocked to the church and removed what items they could from the burning buildings.

The church had been in continuous use since 1787 and was a showplace during Christmas and Easter religious observances.

Racing Cars Cause Accident; Four Killed

YOUNGSTOWN, O., (UP) — A 100-mile-per hour race between two motorists Tuesday night caused an auto accident that killed four persons, including two children.

The motorists were racing side-by-side along a two-lane Trumbull County road near here when a car carrying six persons pulled into their path at an intersection, just north of the Mahoning County line.

One of the speeding cars crashed into the side of the car driven by Rochelle Cornwell, 27, Hubbard Township. The other racer sped away.

Killed were Cornwell, his daughter, Judy 3, Patricia Gilbert, 14-months-old; and Eugene Martin, 26, Youngstown, driver of the speeding car.

Injured were Mrs. Mary Lee Gilbert 18, Patricia's mother; Cornwell's wife, Alberta and George Kennedy, 29, Youngstown. All were passengers in the Cornwell car.

The Highway Patrol said the impact of the collision overturned the Martin car and hurled Cornwell's vehicle 30 feet into a ditch.

Peruvian Tanks Patrolling Streets

AREQUIPA, Peru (UP)—Peruvian army tanks and civil guard units today patrolled the streets of strike-bound Arequipa to prevent possible disorders.

A general strike, declared illegal by the government, has paralyzed all normal business activities in Arequipa, Peru's second largest city. The ports of Mollendo and Matarani also were affected.

The walkout was called in support of more than 3,000 railway workers who went on strike when wage increases were rejected.

done if tests continue left the impression that the United States is growing less enthusiastic about disarmament.

Eisenhower said he had pointed out that the United States would not withdraw its plan to suspend tests under proper inspection procedures, plus some agreement to cease making nuclear bombs at a future date and to devote fissionable materials to peaceful uses. This offer, he said, always stands.

In other news conference highlights, Eisenhower:

—Opposed a national referendum on his proposed civil rights program. He said he knows of no provisions under the Constitution for such a referendum. The idea of putting the civil rights bill to a national referendum was advanced Tuesday by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-a), leader of the southern bloc opposing the bill.

—Said he does not have the exact detailed knowledge necessary to make a judgment on whether the recent steel price increase of 6 a ton was fully warranted. But he repeated that the government alone cannot maintain a stable economy. He said it must have the aid of statesman — like action by labor and management leaders on wage-price increases.

—Said he believes that Army Specialist De Wayne McOsker should be tried by a French court because the crime of which he is accused occurred while the American soldier was off duty. The President said that put McOsker in the same category as any tourist.

—Favored giving the defense secretary power to put procurement and supply activities of the armed forces under a central official.

—Referred a reporter to Tuesday's comment by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles about the proposal of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) that this nation backs Algeria in its struggle for independence from France. Dulles said that Algeria is primarily a French problem, and that if Kennedy wants to do something about colonialism he should concentrate on the kind behind the Iron Curtain. The President said that the U. S. role of world leadership requires that this nation try to understand both sides in controveries such as the French - Algerian dispute instead of lining up with one of them. He said the United States must try to be decent to all and not take sides.

—Opposed making it mandatory that any future telecast in this country by Communist leaders be submitted in advance to the secretary of state and head of the Central Intelligence Agency. He said that would align us with countries which control the press at the expense of its freedom.

—Said he hopes government spending in the current fiscal year will not exceed his January estimate of $71,800,000,000. He said the administration is trying to cut it.

—Obviously irked, he denied any implications that the administration is shooting from the hip in its disarmament proposals. He said the proposals have been the result of long study and consultations with U.S. allies.

—Said it is not helpful to peace in the Middle East for Russia to give submarines to Egypt.

—Said that he appointed Arnold Jones of the Budget Bureau as a new member of the TVA board because he believed he was the best and most capable and disinterested man he could find for the job. He said Jones answered affirmatively when asked the questions, such as whether he is sympathetic to the TVA principles, as required by the law.

Wheat Price Support Listed

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department has confirmed that it will support 1957 crop wheat prices at a national average price of $2 a bushel.

The $2 rate originally was announced July 2, 1956, but the department is required by law to redetermine the support level on the basis of the parity price of wheat at the beginning of the marketing year (July 1).

Youth Tells Exciting Tale of Mayflower II

(Joe Meany, Jr., 17, of Waltham, Mass., was picked by the Boys' Clubs of America out of 500,000 club members to make the voyage on the Mayflower II as American cabin boy. Meany kept a daily log and here are excerpts from that journal.)

By JOE MEANY JR.

PLYMOUTH, England, Saturday, April 20, 1957:

Clearance was given at 4 p.m. and our tow out of the harbor was on by five. Once out of the harbor we went on a starboard tack to the east, but since then we've come about a couple of times and now we're on port tack while sitting in a calm off the shore of Plymouth. A stowaway was caught on the 'tween deck tonight and immediately put off.

April 21: First day out and we're still caught in a calm. I served meals and learned a few more of my duties. Ships were constantly passing close by to signal us and wish us luck. A trawler just came by and left us two buckets of nice fresh fish. In return, Capt. (Alan) Villiers sent over two bottles of rum.

April 22: This was my real rough day. I felt awful and sick all day and spent most of my free time sprawled across my bunk. I was cold all night even in my sleeping bag. I'll be glad when this trip is over.

April 27: Seventh day out and the total distance covered at noon today was 770 miles. We've been making good time so far and if we can keep up this pace, I'll be home for (high school) graduation on June 2. Everything went fine today and I think I've finally started to fit into the ship's routine.

In Wrong Direction

May 2: Twelfth day out and all day we were going in the wrong direction or not going at all. The way we're going now we'll sail right through the Canaries and into Africa.

May 4: At 4 o'clock we "spliced the mainbrace" as they call it. Rum and-or lime juice was served instead of just the juice. I had a mixture while Graham (Meany's British counterpart cabin boy) played it big and had just rum. I don't know how he liked it, but I thought it was miserable.

May 5: I had my last day serving in the salon (dining room) today, at least for a week. I was on deck for a while tonight. It must be nights like this one that makes men want to go to sea. I did a lot of thinking and it made me feel a little lonely.

May 6: We're heading due west now and it's getting rough again. This tub really has some wierd motions.

May 14: The second mate told me to get my knife [illegible] it in the mast. I followed [illegible]rs, not knowing the sig[illegible] of the action, but I found out later that it was supposed to bring up some favorable winds. Well, that's nother superstition of seamen but by nightfall it hadn't worked.

May 15: Just before noon the okay was given for swimming and that was all I needed. The water felt beautiful and I had a good time going off the fo'csle and the forerigging even though I did get "creamed" when I tried a forward somersault.

May 16: The rain in the morning gave me a chance to get a wonderful shower and I really cleaned up. A lot of fresh water was collected and I have a half bucket of it in my cabin for future use.

May 18: apt. Villiers was cursing the ship all morning, especially after his washing water went over. He said again this was the worst ship for motion he's been on. Tonight I saw the "Southern Cross." It was really something for me since I had never expected to see it.

Month At Sea

May 20: One month into history now of the voyage of the Mayflower II from Plymouth to Plymouth. We're moving again and the latest predictions say that at this rate it'll be three more weeks.

May 30: Well, I'll miss graduation this Sunday. Complaints were rising from the saloon today about the food. There's been plenty but the quality hasn't been the best. If Wally (the cook) only knew what he was turning out. He's the only one on board who thinks that he's a good cook.

June 2: Graduation day and, boy, did I graduate! At 4 o'clock we were all summoned to the quarter deck. The captain came out of his cabin and summoned me forward. I was cloaked in a black oilskin and mock graduation cap which Mr. Upham (the ship's builder) had made. Captain Villiers then presented me with a scroll. It was a terrific ceremony and it has made this trip almost complete.

June 5: Four American destroyers came along today and left us with a crate of oranges, apples and carrots. After they broke formation, we heard a sailor shout, "See you in the new world."

June 7: Seven weeks ago we were in Plymouth and everything was nice and calm. Now we're in the midst of a storm. The ship is acting like a cork in a washing machine. All hell has broken loose in the galley; dishes, pans, cutlery are just uncontrollable missiles.

New World Reached

June 11: We've made it! Mayflower II passed abeam of Nantucket light ship at noon today with escort and all. Spectaculars occurred all morning. The liner Queen Elizabeth crossed our bow at less than 300 yards. Last but far from least was Dad. He came out on a launch from Marblehead. He brought the news of a four-year scholarship granted to me by Notre Dame. It was great to see him again, but it will be even greater when I'm with all of them at Plymouth.

June 12: The "on deck" call was at 5:30 this morning to prepare for the tow into Provincetown. We were put to work fast since the sails had to be furled before the Yankton could take us in tow. The customs men came aboard and after that we were overrun by photographers and reporters and I went over to the tug and had my first cold milk since England. I had one quart then and two more later on.

June 13: Going into Plymouth! The Coast Guard tug almost took our bowsprit and sprits'l away when it came in too close from starboard side. After we were untangled, the damage to us was only a few scratches while the tug lost most of her super-structure. I tried to find the Sorrento II in the harbor but unsuccessfully; Mom and Dad were supposed to be on it but they were on shore waiting.

Once we were tied up I stayed at the rail looking for Mom and Dad and Ann but just couldn't spot them. I was very happy that we had finally made it, but I felt a little lonely when I had to get into the shallop without seeing them.

Just as I was stepping on to land for the first time in 55 days I saw them all, Mom, Dad, Dorothy, Ann and Suzie, standing to the right of Plymouth Rock. I felt very funny then. It's beyond words.

Rotary Club Installs W. H. Pore President

William H. Pore, co-publisher and business manager of The Daily Independent, yesterday was installed as the new president of the Monessen Rotary Club.

The brief installation ceremony took place at the club's weekly meeting at Johnson's when Dr. James R. Gemmill, the retiring president, passed the president's pin to Pore.

The latter in turn awarded a past president's pin to Dr. Gemmill.

Following the installation the club heard a talk by Morris Mazer, Pittsburgh salesman who spent three and a half years as a Japanese prisoner during World War II.

Mazer described in detail the "Bataan death march", which he survived, and the brutality which he said the Japanese inflicted on American prisoners.

He expressed the hope that Sgt. William Girard, the U. S. soldier whose killing of a Japanese woman on a firing range is a subject of international controversy, would not be subjected to what Mazer called "Japanese justice."

Girard cannot get a fair trial in Japanese courts, according to Mazer, because the Japanese do not know what fair treatment means.

The speaker was introduced by Zell F[illegible]l friend, who arran[illegible]arance.

A Pure River Is Worth Striving for

SUMMER never comes around without reminding us how much we Monongahela Valley residents miss by not having our river in fit condition for recreation use.

The Monongahela, of course, is one of the most useful streams in the world and from an economic standpoint is one of this district's finest assets. It had much to do with the establishment of the great industries which line its banks, and it is indispensable to them in many ways.

But in its polluted condition, the river is virtually useless for recreation purposes. Swimming in it is dangerous and probably ought to be prohibited. Except for some pretty tough catfish, we understand fish can't live in it. And while a growing number of hardy boat enthusiasts use it, the joy of boating in an open sewer must have limitations.

This is a continuing tragedy for this area.

FOR TEN YEARS or more plans have been discussed for cleaning up the Monongahela as well as many other polluted streams in Pennsylvania. A law is actually on the books which is intended to accomplish this. And it is in compliance with this law that the cities and towns and industries along the river are under standing orders from the Sanitary Water Board to treat their sewage and other wastes before discharging them into the river.

But because of the tremendous cost of constructing and operating treatment facilities, the state is being slow to enforce these orders. And the municipalities and industries are being just as slow to comply voluntarily.

Nevertheless, the imagination is stirred by the developments that might take place if the Monongahela could be purified. Besides a virtually inexhaustible source of pure water, which itself is a pearl of great price these days, we would have a recreation facility which would add immeasurably to the Valley's standing as a good place to live.

These possibilities seem to us to be worth a good deal of work and sacrifice. And we hope the people of the Valley won't allow their public and civic officials to give them up easily.

Our Revolution

AS THE STORY of American independence grows longer, it is more of an effort each year to recall the revolutionary beginning without which it would have been a different story.

There is a tendency, in the relative calm and security of these days, to forget that the United States was planned and founded by men in revolt against established order. What they wanted to do was literally unlawful, and by doing it they became criminals. Had they not succeeded, their leaders almost surely would have hanged.

We do not mean to suggest, of course, that the chief virtue of these men lay in their lawlessness. But we think it needs to be remembered that they dared to be different, to think for themselves and to refuse to conform. Their creed was not security and order — British rule could give them that. They believed in personal liberty, and for this they were willing to revolt.

Our Supreme Court recently has had some things to say about personal liberty. And the criticisms of some of today's Americans about the Court's decisions indicate they may have forgotten the revolutionary nature of the American ideal. They shouldn't — for this seed of personal liberty is still the hope of the world, and it needs to be planted and nurtured everywhere.

On the wall of the room in Paris in which Victor Hugo died was found this inscription in his handwriting:

"I represent a party which does not yet exist:
the party of revolution, civilization.
This party will make the twentieth century.
There will issue from it first the United States of Europe, then the United States of the World."

No, the American Revolution is by no means over.

Enforce the Law

THE INCREASING number of explosions throughout this area as the Fourth of July approaches seems to indicate that the state and local laws against the private sale and use of fireworks are not being enforced.

These laws came into being, it should be remembered, after years and years of horrible tragedy in which thousands of people were maimed and blinded and sometimes killed in "celebrating" the nation's independence.

Public opinion finally decided that this was not the way this historic event should be memorialized. Hence the very stringent laws. And hence also, the fine mass displays which public-spirited organizations provide in many communities, including one by the Lions Club of Monessen at the Stadium this evening.

But the laws are no good without enforcement. And we would like to see more evidence that state and local police in this area have accepted their responsibility.

From Washington—

Dulles and Benson to Stay in Jobs

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The two most controversial members of the cabinet, the two whose resignations have been most predicted and urged by their critics, have notified Mr. Eisenhower that they will remain for the duration of the second term. The President is delighted.

Mr. Drummond

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who has pondered retiring more than once, has abandoned it entirely. He is feeling extremely fit and strong and is eager to remain on the job as long as the President is in office.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, who has been buffeted by his farm-policy opponents inside Congress and out almost from the day he came to Washington in January, 1953, had decided to resign at the close of the present session. He has been persuaded by the President to remain. His commitment is for the full second term. The decision was made at the White House last week.

Church Wants Benson

It wasn't easy to keep Mr. Benson in the cabinet for the next three years. He had never intended to remain longer than the first term. He had decided to leave this summer and when I was in Salt Lake City recently it was evident that the Mormon Church, in which he is one of the 12 most valued elders, strongly wished him back and was bringing pressure on him to get out of government.

The President's insistent and personal appeal enabled Mr. Benson to reverse his decision.

Mr. Eisenhower's effort to keep Mr. Benson reflects more than his personal regard for the Secretary of Agriculture. It is a high policy decision which over-rides Benson critics within the administration and which means that the President is siding unreservedly with Mr. Benson's view that artificially high price supports must be cut if vast government-owned surpluses, now visibly diminishing, aren't to be created all over again.

There is no doubt that U. S. farm policy is at a turning point. The massive surpluses which were built up by the special price incentives of World War II and the Korean war are yielding to the soil bank and the surplus disposal measures.

Decision for Congress

The question which will face Congress no later than next year, with all its temptations to play politics on the eve of the congressional elections, is whether government policy on price supports will be used to palliate and conceal the problem by re-amassing government surpluses or whether to move carefully in the direction of a freer agriculture and a freer market.

Mr. Benson and former Democratic Secetaries of Agriculture such as Clinton Anderson and Henry Wallace hold that high, inflexible price supports are the cause, not the solution, to the problem.

The key fact is that unless the government is prepared to put agriculture in a straight jacket, the farmer by ingenuity and technological advance is going to produce more and more. Mr. Benson puts it this way:

"Since we apparently cannot legislate scarcity, we must learn how to live with abundance.

"If farm products are abundant, the need and challenge is to build markets so that this abundance can be used. We cannot build markets by pricing ourselves out of them."

Production Rises

For 25 years the government tried to reduce production. It couldn't. Total production has increased more rapidly than the increase in population.

Every objective study of farm policy, like the recent one of the Twentieth Century Fund, agrees that a permanent program which subsidizes non-production simply won't work, is bad for the farmer, is bad for the country.

Evidently the President, whatever may be the political headwinds he will face, is giving his unreserved support to Mr. Benson and a move toward a freer agriculture.

The White House and the Republican congressional leadership also decided this week to resist the effort in ongress to shift the scrutiny of the meat packing industry from Agriculture to the Federal Trade Commission and instead to plug loopholes in the act — another vote of confidence for Mr. Benson.

Dulles and Benson are here to stay — with strong presidential backing.

It's a Fact—

The Italian government estimates that it will require about 70 more years of work to complete the excavation of Pompeii.

The Blue Nile carries millions of tons of silt from Ethiopia's Lake Tana to the rich flood plains of Egypt and the Sudan.

Calling All (Mile a) Minute Men

Merry-Go-Round—

Business Leaders 'Kick' Ike

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The increase in the price of steel will not be the only one to help hike the cost of living this summer. It will be followed by a chain reacion of price increases, all further decreasing the buying power of the white collar worker, the farmer, the school teacher, the oldster living on a pension, and anyone with a fixed or low income.

Mr. Pearson

Aluminum manufacturers are expected to ask a penny a pound more on Aug. 1, because of a 15-cent-an-hour wage boost. The meat and glass industries will increase prices. The price of men's flannels will go up three cents per pound, ammonia $8 a ton, and the leading TV manufacturers will try to get $20 more per set.

There's already been a lot of agitation about inflation. But you ain't seen nothin' yet.

No Tax Cut in '58

Most important political effect of the increased cost of steel will not be felt until about next January. This is the period when politicians will try to carry out that long awaited promise of a cut in taxes.

They won't admit it, but the inside fact is there will be no tax cut.

The reason is quite simple. The increased price of steel, together with other simultaneous, spiraling prices, will add $4 billion to the budget. This just about absorbs the surplus on which both political parties based their promise of a tax cut.

It is no secret that the biggest bill Uncle Sam has to pay is for military hardware. This is the term given battleships, submarines, tanks, armored cars, trucks and guns. So when the price of steel goes up, the man who feels it most is the uncle who has to pay for this hardware.

There's another reason why there will be no tax cut. In addition to the $4 billion extra for hardware, another extra billion will be added to the expense of government because of higher interest rates. Uncle Sam will pay that extra billion just to borrow money.

Messrs. Humphrey and Burgess have hiked the interest rate on government bonds to the highest point since the depression, with the result that interest on the national debt is also at an all-time high.

Twice President Eisenhower has appealed to business and labor to hold down prices and wages, and each time he has been promptly kicked in the teeth by the big business leaders who did so much to elect him. Here are the kicks:

Kick No. 1 came just before and after Feb. 6 when the President publicly stated: "When I said business and labor must exercise and must discharge their authority in conformity with the needs of the United States, I wasn't merely asking them to be altruistic. Their long term good is involved, and I am asking them merely to act as enlightened Americans.

"Unless this happens, the United States then has to move in more firmly with so-called controls of some kind."

This got a private horse laugh from business. Reason was that next day, Ike's own Secretary of Commerce, Sinclair Weeks, himself a big businessman, figuratively kicked his boss in the teeth. He stated at his press conference that the administration was not considering wage and price controls at all.

The President had warned business and labor that unless they held down inflation "the United States has to move in more firmly with so-called controls." He did this for the obvious purpose of trying to get business to stop inflation.

Whereupon the man in charge of his business policy cut the ground right out from under his own President.

Kick No. 2 came from another big businessman, James Zellerbach, to whom Ike had given in important diplomatic plum — the ambassorship to Italy. As Zellerbach took his post, he increased the price of paper sold by his Crown Zellerbach Co. This hit newspapers and magazines all over the nation.

Simultaneously, Crown Zellerbach announced: "The most successful year in the company's 86-year history." Profits went up 13.4 per cent over the preceding year. Despite this and despite Ike's appeal to stop inflation, his own ambassador brazenly added to inflation.

Kick No. 3 came last week when the giant U. S. Steel jacked up its prices just one day after the President again appealed to keep prices down.

Behind the Horse Laugh

There's an interesting reason for the business horse laughs regarding the President's warnings. They figure he doesn't really mean them, that he has no idea of ever getting tough. They base this not only on the Sinclair Weeks' denial but on the well-known Eisenhower policy of "reward your opponents."

For instance, business leaders all knew that Eisenhower did nothing about Zellerbach's price increase — except continue him in the choice reward of ambassador to Italy. They also knew that Ben Fairless, chief power behind U. S. Steel for years, had been rewarded by Ike. He was appointed coordinator of the President's Citizen Advisers on the Mutual Security Program.

For several weeks it was known that U. S. Steel was going to hike prices on July 1. It had been printed in the trade press and was reported by this writer. Obviously the White House knew it. But no heat was applied to Ben Fairless and other steel moguls, most of them heavy contributors to the Eisenhower election campaign. Technically Ben Fairless is out of the steel corporation, but he still exercises potent influence.

So business leaders, watching the Eisenhower policy of sweetness and light, go blithely on their price-raising way.

NOTE — In his last press conference, the President reversed his Feb. 6 warning that there might be wage and price controls. He said controls were the way to bring the socialism which Khrushchev predicted for the USA. Many economists say that uncontrolled inflation is a quicker way to bring it. Inflation has already brought socialism to a good part of Europe.

Behind The News—

Unrest Reported in Most of Satellites

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Reports from Eastern Europe indicate that unrest is growing in nearly all of the Soviet satellite countries.

Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Albania are among the countries affected.

In Hungary, popular opposition to the puppet regime of Premier Janos Kadar is being kept under control by ruthless terrorism. But there is serious dissension inside the Communist Party and a purge is under way to rid the army of disaffected elements.

Mr. McCann

In East Germany, Red leaders are drafting students for forced labor or for army service to keep them under control.

It is notable that all of the countriss mentioned are being ruled by "Stalinist" leaders who accept Russian domination.

Official Visit Postponed

A dispatch from Prague reports that Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev have postponed a scheduled state visit to Czechoslovakia.

There is good reason to believe that the trip was postponed because of outbreaks of disorder.

The Czechoslovak prosecutor-general was quoted as saying in a speech made last month that Communist leaders were the targets of "ever-increasing" violent disturbances of public order.

The prosecutor - general complained that prosecutors, judges and attorneys for defendants were showing alarming tendencies toward "liberalism" and encouraging offenders by failing to be tough enough with them.

A dispatch to the London weekly newspaper Observer reported on Sunday that Czechoslovak Communist leaders "face a challenge similar to that which started the upheavals last year in Poland and Hungary."

It is known that the economic situation in Czechoslovakia is bad. The Prague Radio said recently that the coal shortage in Czechoslovakia, the most highly industrialized satellite, had become "catastrophic."

Deportations Reported

Dispatches from Vienna and Belgrade report that thousands of Bulgarians regarded as "unreliable" are being deported to remote provincial areas. In addition, the authorities are recruiting Bulgarian men and women of from 18 to 30 years for labor service in Russia because they are potential trouble-makers.

Even in tiny Albania, on the Adriatic coast, there is both popular unrest and dissension inside the Communist Party.

Maj. Gen. Panajot Pljaku, a veteran Communist, fled to Yugoslavia in May and sought asylum because he feared arrest as one of a group of men who oppose the "Stalinist" leadership.

In none of the satellites is there any indication that a real revolt is likely. For one thing both the people at large and dissident Communists realize that Russian troops would intervene to crush any outbreak as they did in Hungary.

But it is evident that Communist leaders throughout Eastern Europe are anxious. Unrest is likely to increase steadily.

At the White House—

Vacation Problem

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower touched off a flood of vacation invitations when he told his recent news conference that Denver is out but he is having trouble deciding on a substitute.

The invitations began arriving the very next day from almost every part of the country. While the President indicated he would prefer to go somewhere north of Washington, it didn't hamper invitations from more southern climes.

Republican governors added their own personal invitations when they lunched with the President on Thursday. Eisenhower was appreciative but made no commitments.

The hopeful askers ranged from Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of faraway California to Gov. Theodore McKeldin of neighboring Maryland.

Press Secretary Jim Hagerty said most of the bids by governors were in the form of "expressed hopes" rather than "formal invitations."

Likely to be ruled out of the running by the White House are resort type vacation spots which normally would be crowded to capacity when the President plans to be away. No one would want to ask resort owners to evict paid-up or reserved guests to make room for the 100 or so White House staff members and newsmen who normally make up the President's vacation entourage.

House and Senate Republican leaders—Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) and William F. Knowland (Calif.)—were red - faced at the last meeting between Eisenhower and his GOP leaders. But it had nothing to do with the White House session.

Martin's ruddy complexion was marred by a badly peeling nose. He said he got too much sun when he accompanied Vice President Richard M. Nixon to Plymouth, Mass., for ceremonies honoring the Mayflower II

"I'm afraid I burn, instead of tan," Martin complained.

Knowland credited his complexion to the California sun which was shining brightly during his trip home to attend his daughter's wedding.

The President had some fun with another president the other day—college senior James R. McDonald of the Future Teachers of America.

Eisenhower laughingly related to a later caller how, when McDonald's group came into his office, he said to James:

"Hello, Mr. President."

Eisenhower recalled that McDonald "didn't know what to answer."

The President is watching his diet more carefully than ever since his recent stomach upset. He took it easy, for example, at the state dinner at the governors conference in Williamsburg.

The menu featured consomme; Chesapeake Bay crab; roast sirloin of prime southwest Virginia beef; green beans with sauteed almonds; and a dessert of "governor's mansion tipsy squire"—a mint concoction. On the wine list was New York sherry, Ohio "Rhine wine", a burgundy from California and a champagne from New Jersey.

Eisenhower steered clear of the crab and lightly sampled the wines.

Big Time Trimmings for All-Star Tilt

The 1957 edition of the Mon Valley League All-Star game will have big-time trimmings. Scheduled for this Saturday at Charleroi, the contest will match the MVL Stars against the highly-touted Mt. Washington team of the Greater Pittsburgh League. WESA will carry a play-by-play account of the game with popular Frank Buscanics at the microphone. Frank also plans some pre-game interviews. To keep things lively between innings, at least one musical organization will be on hand. In charge of the All-Star preparations is George Zuraw, business manager of the host Charleroi nine. The game will serve as the sports feature of the annual Veterans' Memorial Week observance in the Magic City.

Busy Making Plans for Season Tix Sale

Monessen High faculty-manager of athletics Armand Mori is busy laying plans for the advance football season ticket sale. Last year, 427 season books were sold for the adult side of Memorial Stadium while students purchased 1,108. Mori hapes to peddle considerably more this year . . . In reply to a query, the Monessen Jayvee footballers won three of four assignments last season. They lost to McKeesport, 32-7, in the season opener, then came on to whip Uniontown, 20-0; Clairton, 20-12; and Brownsville, 26-0. The McKeesport setback may be alibied in that the locals went into the game without any real practice as a team unit . . . Practically that entire Jayvee team will move up to varsity status this season.

Little League games scheduled in the American Division tonight have been postponed until Saturday to make room for the Lions Club's big fireworks display at Memorial Stadium.

Allegheny College Coach Tells Story

Bob Garback, former big leaguer who is now in his 12th year as Allegheny College baseball and basketball coach, tells this story on himself. One afternoon the past spring following an unhappy batting practice, a passing motorist hailed Garback and asked: "How do I hit 322?" The motorist, of course, was referring to a major East-West Highway which runs near the college. But Garback growled in reply: "Don't swing at the bad ones and any palooka will get one for three, but do you think I can tell that to my boys?" . . . Incidentally, Allegheny College has published a fancy brochure boosting its sports program. Last year 73 of the 610 male undergraduate students won varsity letters in nine intercollegiate sports. And 320 Allegheny men competed in one or more of the 12 sports available; 234 of them on intercollegiate squads.

Parsons Praises Yank Auto Drivers

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Johnny Parsons came home from Italy today, after running third in the United States sweep of the Monza 500-mile auto race, certain that the "crazy Americans" can drive with the best in the world.

"It's a matter of cars, not the men who sit in them," said the graying-haired Californian. "Give us one race over their roads and we could take our place with the Europeans."

Europeans have dominated the racing news of late with most of the talk being about such as Juan Manuel Fangio, Sterling Moss and others of the foreign daredevils. So with Johnny, the 1950 Indianapolis winner who ran third at Monza behind Jimmy Bryan and Troy Ruttman, it's a matter of national pride.

To understand this you have to go back to the day when Johnny Parsons was nine years old and his uncle ran a garage in Los Angeles where the early race drivers kept their cars. Then, one breathless afternoon, one of them gave young Johnny a ride.

Nothing else but

"From that day on I never wanted to be anything but a race driver," he says.

Which is what he has been, and with great success, for the last 17 of his 39 years. Few men have driven in more races and he has taken his lumps, too, doing "the upside down" no less than nine times as well as spinning into the wall at Indianapolis.

"Sure, you get scared," he admits. "If you don't, you don't live long. Let's just say you have to love this business."

Johnny has driven nine times at Indianapolis. He was second in his first start in 1949, won in 1950 and since has been stalled by tough luck.

"In 1952 I was running third when I stopped to change tires," he can grin now. "The car dropped off the jack and there I was, sitting in a real low race car. By the time I got running again I was 28th, and managed to finish 10th. I was running second in 1955 with a full tank and a new set of shoes and—bango, there went the magneto and $63,000."

Races Every Night

There was a time when, over a three - year period, Johnny raced midgets seven nights a week, jumping from Anderson, Ind., to St. Louis, Rockford, Ill., Detroit, South Ben, Chicago and Indianapolis. The next week it started all over again. Through 1945 and 1946 each week he took a day off, making "only" six races weekly with a schedule which took him to Sacramento, Hollywood, San Diego, back to Hollywood, Bakersfield and Fresno.

In September he embarks on a 12-state coast-to-coast tour teaching highway education at high schools and clubs for Champion spark plugs.

"There are three basic racing rules I teach them," he explains. "First, to be courteous, and give the other fellow a break; second to stay mentally alert and anticipate the other fellow's move, and third to keep their car in top condition. If we all drove like that, we wouldn't have 40,000 highway deaths each year.

"But, honestly, right now it's safer on any race track. Because actually, we Americans can drive with anybody in the world."

Richard Bass Throws No Hitter For Eagles in PONY League

A brilliant no-hit pitching performance by Richard Bass of the Eagles has tightened the PONY League baseball standings again.

Bass tossed his perfect game last night as the pace-setting Lions, carving away a 4-0 triumph.

The Eagles gave Bass all the runs he needed by pushing across four tallies in the opening inning.

The win was the fourth in 14 starts for the cellar-dwelling Eagles.

Second place Ravens moved up in the standings, thanks to a 6-0 forfeit win over CIO. The union boys failed to show up with nine players.

Just Game Away

The Birds are now just a game away from first place.

Tonight's PONY League action has been called off because of the Independence Day show at Memorial Stadium. The Saturday card has also been postponed because of the Local 1229 picnic.

That means the PONY League will be idle until next week.

Ortega Takes on Baker Tonight

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—Second-ranked welterweight Gaspar Ortega of Mexico City puts his chance for a title shot on the line tonight against fiery underdog Larry Baker of New York in a 10-rounder at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Ortega is a heavy 5-2 favorite to trounce the unsung New York fighter in the nationally-televised bout scheduled to get under-way at 10 p.m. e.d.t.

The 21-year-old Mexican has been itching for a title shot at champion Carmen Basilio and may have been Basilio's opponent in September had not middleweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson signed for a fight.

But Ortega's trainer, Whitey Bimstein, is confident a title shot could be had before the year is out "if we can get by this boy tonight—and I think we can."

Portholes in ships are made round instead of square because a round opening is easier to make watertight and is also more resistant to the pounding of waves.

Foiles Only Buc Picked By Alston

CINCINNATI (UP)—Walt Alston, shooting for his second straight All-Star victory, placed more faith today in the Milwaukee Braves than he did in his own Brooklyn Dodgers.

Alston picked five Milwaukee players for his National League All-Star team which meets the American League at St. Louis, July 9, while selecting only three players from his Brooklyn roster.

The Milwaukee players Alston chose were pitchers Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette and infielders Eddie Mathews, Johnny Logan and Al (Red) Schoendienst. Outfielder Hank Aaron was on the starting team, so that gave the Braves six players on the squad.

From his own club, Alston named pitcher Clem Labine, first baseman Gil Hodges and outfielder Gino Cimoli.

Other Pitchers

With five Cincinnati players in the starting lineup already on the strength of votes they polled from the fans, Alston named one more member of the Redlegs to his team, outfielder Gus Bell.

Bell was one of the Cincinnati players "dropped" from the NL team last week by Commissioner Ford Frick because he felt a last-minute avalanche of Cincinnati votes that produced seven Redleg starters was not a "typical" All-Star team.

Cincy Starters

The five Cincy starters will be second baseman Johnny Temple, third baseman Don Hoak, shortstop Roy McMillan, outfielder Frank Robinson and catcher Ed Bailey.

The remainder of the starting team will have Stan Musial of the Cardinals playing first base in his 14th All-Star Game; Willie Mays of the Giants in center field, and Aaron in right field.

To help Bailey with the catching chores, Alston chose Hal Smith of the Cardinals and Hank Foiles of the Pirates.

Alston also selected infielder Ernie Banks of the Cubs and outfielder Wally Moon of the Cardinals.

Pirates Defeat Yankees, 5 to 4

Pirates moved to within a game of the Minor League lead yesterday by tripping the Yankees, 5-4, in seven innings.

Tom Havrilak was the big star. He tripled with two men aboard to knock in the tying and winning runs for the winners.

Larry Nuzzaci had two hits for the Bucs, while Mike Kootsouradis and Floyd Faulks had a like number for the Yanks.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Now and again you run into a player who may know, for instance, that he's missing shots because he picks his club up too abruptly on the backswing, instead of taking it back in a long arc. But he doesn't know why the abrupt pick-up.

Mostly, this fault stems from bending the left knee forward at the start of the backswing. Such action frees the body to take the club back, but only in an upward jerk. To sweep the club back smoothly, the left knee joint must bend inward. Try it and see the difference.

Since the inward turn of the left knee is the proper action, give the swing a push in the right direction by turning your left knee in a little to begin with. That makes proper action easier; improper action harder.

Middlecoff Carries American Hopes in Tourney

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UP) Confident Cary Middlecoff and Frank Stranahan carried America's hopes today as the first round of the British Open golf championship got underway.

Only two other Americans—former public links champion ene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., and Air Force Lt. Frank Keck of Champaign, Ill.—were in the championship flight, which numbered a host of threats from the scattered regions of the British Empire.

Middlecoff, the U. S. Open champion in 1949 and 1956 and runner-up in 1957, had many anxious moments in the second round of qualifying play Tuesday after shooting a so-so 73 round to go with his opening round 75. Stranahan, the relaxed millionaire from Toledo, Ohio, who has done some of his best playing on British soil, fired a 70 for a two-round qualifying total of 141.

97 Qualify

Veteran Bobby Locke of South Africa, British Open champion in 1949, 1950 and 1952, and British Ryder Cupper Bernard Hunt tied for the medal with 137 totals as 96 players in all qualified for the championship flight.

A single round will be played today and Thursday with the 50 low scorers going on to the 36-hole windup on Friday.

Seven Yanks were eliminated Tuesday. Al Zimmerman, a pro from Phoenix, Ariz., just missed with a 150, while Al Jamison of Leesburg, Va., had 151. Roger Peacock of Silver Spring, Md., wound up with a 153, followed by Tom Draper of Detroit, also with a 153, pro Johnny Musser of Baltimore, 155, Larry Carpenter of Springfield, N. J., 160, and pro Jimmy E. Thompson of Bakersfield, Calif., 161.

Former Major League Pitcher, Luque, Dead

HAVANA, Cuba, (UP)—Adolfo Luque, former major league pitcher, died here today at the age of 66. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Luque spent 21 years in the National League, breaking in with the Boston Braves in 1914 and ending his active career with the New York Giants in 1935.

He appeared in two World Series, with the Cincinnati Reds in 1919 and with the Giants in 1933. He was the winning pitcher in the fifth and final game of the 1933 Series.

Luque went to the Reds in 1918 and during the next 10 years was rated among the league's outstanding pitchers. His best year was in 1923 when he posted a record of 27 games won against eight lost.

He spent two years with the Brooklyn Dodgers, 1930 and 1931, and joined the giants in 1932. After ending his active career in 1935, Luque stayed on as coach for the Giants until 1938.

Luque chalked up an overall record of 194 games won to 179 lost during his career.

Maglie Finally Defeats Giants

NEW YORK, (UP)—Sal Maglie's 6-0 victory for the Dodgers Tuesday night finally gave him "complete" vindication over his old team, the Giants.

It marked his first complete game against the Giants since they traded him away in 1955.

'Boy' Wins Again for Cards

Von McDaniel Scores His Fourth Straight; Tops Braves, 4 to 2

By MILTON RICHMAN

Rookie Von McDaniel, a $50,000 investment by the St. Louis Cardinals, already has paid off with a more spectacular big league beginning than even Bob Feller.

When Feller broke in as an awkward 17-year-old with Cleveland back in 1936, he had a 5-3 record in his first season and a 3.34 earned run average.

The 18-year-old McDaniel, paid a $50,000 bonus upon his high school graduation five weeks ago, already has a 4-0 record with the cards and a 1.50 earned run average that is helping them horn in on the National League lead again.

McDaniel retired the first 18 Milwaukee batters in a row Tuesday night in posting a 4-2 victory that moved St. Louis within a game of first place. Accustomed to pitching only seven innings in high school, the Cardinal rookie yielded four hits and two runs in the seventh and was replaced by veteran Hoyt Wilhelm in the eighth when he gave up another hit.

Redlegs Take NL Lead

Cincinnati took over first place from the Braves by defeating the Cubs, 8-6, in 10 innings, and the Dodgers blanked the Giants, 6-0 Pittsburgh and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

The Yankees maintained their two-game lead in the American League race with an 11-inning 6-4 victory over the Orioles; the White Sox beat the Tigers, 4-2, and Boston moved into third place with a 2-1 decision over Washington. Cleveland and Kansas City were idle.

Doubles by George Crowe and Don Hoak coupled with three walks gave the Redlegs their two runs in the 10th that beat Chicago. Cincinnati hopped on starter Don Kaiser for five runs in the second inning with the help of a grand-slam homer by Wally Post but homers by Lee Walls and Ernie Banks enabled Chicago to tie the score. Raul Sanchez was the winner.

Forty-year-old Sal Maglie, pitching his first complete game since the season opener, limited the Giants to four hits as the Dodgers put together three-run rallies in the third and sixth innings. Errors by shortstop Andre Rodgers and catcher Wes Westrum set up Brooklyn's first rally while Elmer Valo's triple and Carl Furillo's double featured the sixth inning assault.

McDougald Paces Yanks

Gil McDougald's two-run double off George Zuverink with two out in the 11th enabled southpaw Whitey Ford to post his second victory in relief for the Yankees in as many days. The victory was the Yanks' sixth in a row and it came after they had trailed 3-0 until the seventh.

Frank Lary of Detroit led 2-1 until the eighth inning when Larry Doby clouted a three-run homer into the left field stands to give the White Sox their victory. Southpaw Billy Pierce pitched a five-hitter for his 11th triumph but fell behind when Frank Bolling homered in the seventh.

Catcher Sammy White drove in both Boston runs as the Red Sox subdued the Senators even though being held to three hits by Camilo Pascual and Russ Kemmerer. White's fifth inning single tied the score at 1-all and his sacrifice fly brought in Jackie Jensen with the winning run in the seventh. Big Frank Sullivan gave up six hits and struck out seven to register his seventh victory.

German Boxer Makes Impressive American Debut

NEW YORK (UP) — Middleweight Germinal Ballarin of France made an unimpressive American debut while outpointing Bob Provizzi Monday night, but Provizzi admits, "I found him tougher than Sugar Ray Robinson."

Ballarin's unanimous decision over Provizzi of Freeland, Pa., in their TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena clinched for him another TV fight at Syracuse, N.Y., July 19, with fifth-ranking Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y.

Ballarin, who wore a luxuriant black mustache that approached handlebar spread, weighed 160½ pounds to Provizzi's 154. The lanky Frenchman, 27, was favored at 12-5. He took the decision over slippery Bob, on a rounds basis, 6-3-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Provizzi, 26, who lost a non-title 10-round bout to middleweight champion Robinson last Nov. 10, suffered a cut left brow in the fifth round. There were no knockdowns.

Provizzi said, "Yes, I found him tougher than Robinson. He hits very hard. He keeps coming at you all the time. And he's so awkward you don't know what he's going to do next."

Norris May Not Appeal Court Order to Sell

NEW YORK, (UP)—Boxing men were genuinely surprised today at Jim Norris' uncertainty about appealing Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan's final monopoly judgment to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Both Norris and his chief defense attorney, Kenneth C. Royall, stressed the possibility of no appeal Tuesday night, after Judge Ryan had filed the judgment, designed to break up the International Boxing Club's title - fight monopoly.

Previously Norris had stated he "certainly" would appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court in case of an adverse verdict.

Anyway, Judge Ryan granted their request for a stay of enforcement of his judgment until Nov. 1, in case of an appeal. Should the Supreme Court grant a review of the case, the stay of enforcement would automatically be extended until a decision was reached.

Ordering Norris and partner Arthur Wirtz divorced completely from Madison Square Garden, Judge Ryan appointed two trustees to hold all stock in the Garden Corp. owned or controlled by Norris and Wirtz, while it was being sold over a period that could stretch to seven years if necessary.

The IBC's of New York and Illinois were ordered dissolved immediately after the judgment becomes effective.

Three Big Six footballers — including Monessen's Maurice Mathieu — have indicated that they'll continue their education at Miami University this fall.

Two valley products — Brownsville's Willie Vasiloff and Charleroi's Maury Guttman — are already stars at the southern school.

Leo Guttman, a Charleroi businessman who scouts for Miami in the district, said today that Mathieu, Joe Novsek and Bill Olsavsky have agreed to Miami scholarships. Both Novsek and Olsavsky are Redstone High graduates.

Mathieu, 5-8, 165 pound speedster, was the leading scorer in the Big Six last season, piling up 132 points. College scouts consider him a tremendous running prospect.

'Pike Defense Calls Its Third Witness

HARRISBURG (UP)—John P. Simms, acting chief construction engineer for the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, was scheduled to take the witness stand for the defense today in the turnpike trial.

Simms will be the third witness called by the defense in its attempt to beat down the state's charges of conspiracy and fraud against the Manu-Mine Research and Development Corp., Reading, and five former top officials of the Turnpike Commission.

The defendants' second witness was another turnpike employe, Gertrude Woodward, former secretary to John D. Paul, former construction engineer for the commission and one of the nine defendants charged with conspiracy.

Miss Woodward was on the stand briefly Tuesday afternoon to identify a letter from Manu-Mine to the commission which the defense asked be admitted in evidence.

Harry L. Luke, a project engineer for Manu-Mine, who has been on the witness stand since the defense rested its case last Friday, stepped down finally Tuesday afternoon after testifying under cross-examination that his firm submitted a new cost estimate on its drilling contract with the turnpike after the work had been terminated.

Luke said the new estimate reached the same figure of $12.50 per foot for the drilling, as stated in the 1955 contract which authorized the work. But the new statement broke down costs into 18 categories and was back-dated to before the contract was admitted.

Luke said the new memorandum which was submitted to the commission was made up in the fall of 1956 "to determine to our own satisfaction if we had erred."

He did not say why the statement was made after the work was terminated, nor why it was back-dated to Jan. 11, 1955.

GE to Close York Plant In Near Future

YORK, Pa. (UP)—The General Electric Co. has disclosed it intends to close its welding plant here "to devote its resources to other areas of business."

D. A. Hopper, general manager of the York plant, said no definite date for the shutdown has been set and the plant will continue to fulfill its contracts with users and distributors during the termination period.

"It is difficult to predict exactly when production at the plant will end, Hopper said. "The company will continue to provide service and parts for all equipment in use."

Harold E. Stranz, G.E. vice-president and general manager of the firm's Measurement and Industrial Products Division said the move would "enable the company to devote its resources to other areas of business closely related to more rapidly growing fields in the electrical industry."

The plant, which manufactures all types of welding equipment and accessories, employs about 285 persons. General Electric has occupied the York factory since 1921, first as its wire and cable department and in the past three years as a welding adjunct. Officials said no plans have been made for disposition of the factory and facilities.

Butler Firm Devises New TV Film Process

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UP) — An electronic system for telecasting black and white film in color is being developed by a young Pennsylvania firm.

The process would provide excellent color reproduction while permitting the advantages of black and white film and fast processing according to Samuel H. Depew, vice president of Bryg, Inc.

The system, he said, would provide "more accurate" reproduction of color than color film now in use. It will be demonstrated by late summer.

A mechanical process, also being developed by Bryg for amateur use, was demonstrated recently for officials of station WJAC-TV here.

Depew said WJAC-TV will join with Bryg in conducting tests and completing work on the electronic color film process.

The mechanical system, he said, requires the use of color filters in the camera as well as the projector. The filters register a particular color value on the film when the pictures are taken. The color is restored when the pictures are shown through a similar set of filters.

The electronic system will employ a different technique of filtering to achieve the same result, he said.

Depew said the firm has been successful in solving mathematical and electronic design problems and the first working model soon will be installed in WJAC-TV. He said successful tests with the process have been conducted with still transparencies on a closed-circuit color setup.

Bryg, Inc., was formed in November to develop and market electronic and photographic equipment for the new system. Its home office is in Butler, Pa.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear brother, Andrew J. Nalepa, who died 10 years ago tomorrow, July 4, 1947.
Gone, dear brother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill,
Sadly missed by Sisters and Brother.

Urges National Warning System For Disasters

WASHINGTON (UP) — Former Civil Defense Chief Val Peterson called today for a nationwide system of home-installed warning devices to prevent "needless" deaths from hurricanes and other natural disasters.

Peterson said the Civil Defense Administration already is testing such a device and that President Eisenhower is interested in its development and use

Peterson called on Eisenhower to report on damage and casualties caused by Hurricane Audrey in Louisiana and Texas. He made a survey of the stricken areas as the Presidents' personal representative.

Peterson told reporters at the White House that "few, if any" of the people killed by the storm needed to die.

He said the Weather Bureau did a "superb" job of discovering, tracking and predicting the hurricane, which threw a devastating nine-foot tidal wave against Cameron, La. The death toll is expected to hit 500 by the time widely scattered bodies are recovered.

Peterson said it is "understandable" that many residents of the area did not respond to Weather Bureau warnings "because they're a pretty hardy breed of folks."

But he deplored the needless deaths which resulted from the local feeling that, "it can't happen here."

'Why, Hello There'

DUTTON, Mich. (UP) — Mrs. Morris Handloten caught a man climbing through her kitchen window. He said he came to fix her husband's car. The stranger left after stammering through his explanation and wiping his fingerprints from surfaces he touched. Kent County sheriff's officers are searching.

Foreign Car Sales Booming in the U. S.

By ROBERT SHORTAL

NEW YORK (UP) —Sales of foreign cars in the United States are booming.

Americans this year will spend in the neighborhood of half a billion dollars for small, lightweight cars from Germany, France, England, Italy and Sweden.

The sharp increase in foreign car sales—from around 30,000 cars in 1954 to around 200,000 this year—has caused some raised eyebrows in Detroit.

Every American car manufacturer is mapping plans to take advantage of the new market opened up by their foreign counterparts.

Foreign Car Sales Up

Foreign cars are expected to account for about 3 to 3.5 per cent of the total U. S. car market this year. Foreign manufacturers report sales are running well ahead of 1956 and that they have long waiitng lists.

The big selling feature of these cars is economy—low prices, efficient operation.

Germany's little Messerschmitt, which carries two people, one behind the other, is said to run 100 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

U.S. Imports Rise

Imports of foreign cars have increased so rapidly the past few years that some experts are predicting 1957 will be the first year in history that the U.S. imported more cars than it exported.

U.S. firms are taking steps to capture a share of this fast-growing and lucrative market.

General Motors Corp. announced last week that it will begin importing cars made by two of its foreign affiliates — Vauxhall in England and Opel in Germany.

Ford is pushing imports of two of its affiliates—Ford of England and Simca of France. Studebaker-Packard is going to produce an economy car in this country and also has an arrangement with Daimler-Benz, of Germany. American Motors Corp. makes the small Rambler and is importing the British-made Metropolitan.

Why Small Cars Sell

What's behind the rise in small car sales?

"Our big markets are the people who want a second car or those who must drive back and forth to work every day," said Robert Lamaison, vice president and general manager of Renault Inc., major French auto maker.

"Our biggest selling feature is economy. Why buy a car that gives only 15 miles to the gallon when you can buy one that will give you 40?" he asked.

Lamaison said the move to the suburbs and the rising cost of gasoline have helped to spur the growth of the economy-car market.

Wants Crackdown On Practice of Bootleg Dentistry

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The head of the Pennsylvania Dental Society urged the state Department of Justice today to be "more interested in the investigating and prosecuting" of persons practicing bootleg dentistry.

Dr. Isaac Sissman, Pittsburgh, said the department "has shown little enthusiasm for this task."

"The department suffers from lack of funds, lack of personnel and, I would add, lack of will," Sissman said.

In an article in the Pennsylvania Dental Journal, the dental society president said obtaining conviction of unlicensed dentists making false teeth is difficult because of the reluctance of the victims to prosecute.

Sissman said persons who get unsatisfactory dentures from so-called cut - rate dentists do not want to take the time to prosecute because it won't make their false teeth fit or get back their money.

One Van Doren Can Relax Tomorrow Night

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Charles Van Doren, who smoked and perspired his way to $129,000 on a TV quiz show early this year, can sit back and relax Thursday night.

Somebody else in the Van Doren family will be sweating it out on TV.

Charlie's younger brother, John, takes the plunge into television tomorrow evening as panelist on the new Jack Barry NBC quizzer, "High-Low." John, an instructor in American history at Brandeis University, was coaxed into the job by Charlie who had to turn it down because of other TV commitments.

"I guess my brother is closer to me than anybody ever has been in my life," said Charlie today. "It's really a wonderful relationship. So when it was decided that I couldn't do 'High-Low,' I really wanted him to do this thing on TV.

John is "Bright Guy"

"You know, all the time I was on 'Twenty One' and all of those wonderful things were happening to me, I kept wishing something nice would happen to him, that some fairy godmother might come along and touch him on the shoulder. This, I think, may do it for him. He's a really bright guy."

Charlie acquired a wife and an NBC contract after his fling on "Twenty One."

"The NBC contract is for three years with two years of options," explained Charlie. "It calls for me to do everything except singing, dancing, acting or performing on variety shows. But as a matter of fact, I wouldn't mind doing a little acting.

Married Life Agrees

"Married life? I find it very pleasant. My wife, Gerry, is kind of working as a secretary for me, helping me out with my research and writing letters. I'm working on a new book—it's a collection of letters written by famous people to their mothers.

"I had a novel that was going to be published next season, but I've pulled it back. I don't want to sell it on the strength of all the TV excitement."

Van Doren invested almost all of the $129,000 he won on "Twenty One."

"I don't know how much I'll pay on taxes and I won't know until Jan. 1 when I figure out how much I've made this year," said Van Doren.

"There hasn't been much physical change in my life. I've got a new car, a new double bed and an air conditioner for my apartment. I got my mother a dishwashing machine.

"I've stopped smoking—I was up to a pack and a half while I was on the quiz show. But best of all, I suppose, it is what has happened inside of me. I feel less shy with people. I used to be terribly uncomfortable in a crowd, but no more."

Van Doren, who receives $4500 as an English instructor at Columbia, will continue teaching. "It's tremendously satisfying work. And then, too, there's the thought of how long all this is going to last. Maybe NBC will drop me in three years, maybe they'll say I'm no good. Maybe, it's all luck. You know, so far I've been a terribly lucky fellow."

Showgirl Runs TV Earnings Up to $80,000

NEW YORK (UP) — Showgirl Barbara Hall of Pittsburgh, ran her earnings to $80,000 Tuesday night on "The $64,000 Question"

Miss Hall, 24, ninth winner of $64,000 on the CBS television program, correctly answered the first of three questions leading to a $128,000 prize.

Miss Hall first was required to define "haggard" and "jesses" in a quotation from Othello and to tell to what occupation the figures of speech pertain. She correctly defined haggard as wild, untameable or unchaste, and jesses as straps by which a falcon's legs are attached to the falconer's leash. The terms are used in falconry.

She then said the source for Shakespeare's "Anthony and Cleopatra" was Sir Thomas North's translation of Plutarch's "Lives."

Miss Hall correctly identified Henry V as the character who said, "I know thee not old man. Fall to thy prayers. How ill white hairs become a fool and jester," and Sir John Falstaff as the person to whom he spoke.

Finally, she completed the stanza which begins: "O mistress mine, where are you roaming?"

Miss Hall returns next week to answer her second question leading to the double-$64,000 prize.

Your Health—

Tea, Coffee, Juice Best for the Driver

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Be careful what you drink when you drive.

I'm not going to launch a long lecture about the evils of "mixing alcohol with gasoline," as our safety officials say. All of you know the dangers of driving while drunk.

But with summer holidays and vacations at hand, I think you should give a thought to what you should and should not drink when you're on a long drive.

Take milk, for instance — or, rather, don't take it. Now I've preached the values of milk for ages; you're probably bored with the subject. I've pointed out why you need at least a pint a day.

This rule still applies even though you're on a vacation. However — and here's the difference — when driving for long hours at a time, take your milk quota in cooked foods, with cereals or just before going to bed.

Milk, you see, is soothing. It actually induces sleep. When you've got a lot of driving to do, you'll want to stay awake. Both tea and coffee will be helpful in this respect.

Caffein is a natural mild stimulant. Niacin dilates the capillaries and helps to keep a person alert. Both caffein and niacin are found in tea and coffee.

Incidentally, using sugar in your coffee or tea helps maintain your blood sugar level and tends to satisfy any feeling of hunger you might develop between meals.

Fruit juices, too, have their value to the driver, especially tomato, orange or grapefruit juice. They'll help pep you up should you become drowsy.

Soft drinks, too, are helpful to a motorist. Many of them — cola drinks in particular — are mildly stimulating.

What about water? Well, I think most of you will agree that there is nothing as thirst-quenching or as satisfying as a good cool glass of water during a long, hot drive. Besides, you are apt to perspire freely on the highway at this time of the year. You will need to replace that lost perspiration by drinking your quota of four to six glasses of water each day.

Today in Congress—

Senate Passes Giant Defense Money Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate has passed a whopping $34,534,229,000 defense money bill, the biggest measure of the session and a near record in peacetime funds for the armed forces.

The measure, passed unanimously at an overtime meeting Tuesday night, gave President Eisenhower a resounding budget victory. It would restore $971,504,000 of the $1,200,000,000 in House cuts which the President had labeled a threat to national security.

Passage came after the Senate staved off two drives to make deeper cuts in the measure But senators did include a provision demanding that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson take all possible steps to save money by eliminating waste and duplication in military procurement and supply.

The House and Senate versions now go to a conference to thresh out differences in the two totals Senators agreed in advance that their total would be termed somewhat in reaching a compromise with hte House.

Other congressional news:

Filibuster: The Senate cleared its legislative schedule for what looks like one of the biggest civil rights fights of the century. Republicans and liberal Democrats expressed optimism that they would be successful in their battle this time. The Senate plans to recess tonight over the Fourth of July holiday and then tackle the civil rights problem Monday.

Exchange: Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) proposed that Russian leaders be invited to address Congress in return for similar talks by American leaders to Russia's lawmaking body. He said such an exchange should help understanding between the two nations. This in turn would boost the value of major conferences such as the current London disarmament negotiations, he said.

Disarmament: Chairman Hubert H. Humphrey of the Senate special disarmament subcommittee hailed the U. S. disarmament plan calling for a suspension of nuclear tests as a "serious, well considered proposal." The Minnesota Democrat said the plan is just a beginning but "the important thing is to get the 'first step." Other officials said the United States is working on another possible disarmament move to bar transfer of nuclear weapons to Red China or other non-nuclear powers.

Agreements: Rep. Frank T Bow disputed Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's claim that American troops would have to be called home from overseas if the United States scraps its status-of-forces agreements. The Ohio Republican said nations with American soldiers on their soil are interested enough in their own protection and in free world strength to want to keep GI's there. The House Foreign Affairs Committee has approved a resolution demanding that status-of-forces accords dealing with trials of U.S. servicemen be scrapped or renegotiated.

Glamour Girl Is Heart Victim

MONTMOLLIN, Switzerland (UP) — Swiss officials said today they planned no inquest into the death of Joanne Connelley Ortiz Patino, the international society beauty whose marital troubles made headlines for four years.

The 26-year-old twice-married former cover girl was found dying of a heart attack early Tuesday in her villa. She died soon after a Roman Catholic priest administered the last rites of the church.

Informed sources said no investigation was planned because she had been ill for some time. The sources said she had been treated twice at a Lausanne Hospital for heart trouble, caused by taking overdoses of reducing pills.

Joanne, a New York debutante of the 1948 season whose beautiful face appeared on many magazine covers, was married first to millionaire socialite golfer Robert Sweeny in March, 1949, in a Palm Beach ceremony where she was escorted by railroad tycoon Robert Young.

She made her first international headlines in 1953 when Sweeny divorced her on grounds of adultery with playboy diplomat Porfirio Rubirosa.

She had intended to visit New York next week to see her two daughters who are in Sweeny's custody.

In 1954 she married Jaime Ortiz Patino, heir to a billion dollar Bolivian tin fortune. Their life together lasted only 49 days and was followed by three years of suits and countersuits across Europe—and blazing headlines throughout the world.

She died just before a Swiss court was to hand down a final divorce decree in a scandal-proof end to the charges of narcotics addiction, cruelty, defamation of character and libel
